Flying Classroom!

Last week our K-5 students went on their first Flying Classroom virtual expedition, but this week they completed their first Flying Classroom STEM challenge. Our K-2 students built helicopters and our 3rd-5th graders have been trying to solve a worldwide problem. Bees are essential to our ecosystem and food supply as they are major pollinators. As bee populations have been declining, one solution is mechanical bees. Our students were challenged to design and build pollen baskets to capture the pollen which could then be transported by mechanical bees. We are excited to be hosting a Flying Classroom Virtual Parent Night on Oct. 13th at 7pm where you will have the opportunity to meet Captain Irving (founder of Flying Classroom) and learn how the program can benefit your children. Stay tuned for more information.
