Full STEAM Ahead!

As St. Mel's Catholic Academy rockets towards the future, we want to inspire our children to think about their futures and the world of possibilities that awaits them. STEAM education is at the forefront as we challenge them to use principles of science, technology, engineering, art and mathematics to creatively problem solver and develop their critical thinking skills. This is not isolated in their weekly STEM or Art class, but rather weaved into all curriculum areas. Check out some of our future meteorologists and engineers as our 3rd grade has been exploring weather concepts (here they are bringing "clouds" into the science lab) and our 2nd graders use what they learned about beaver dams to build their own (this is called biomimicry) while our 4th graders designed and built a chair to withstand the weight of a beloved furry friend, Teddy. Check out these innovative creations.
