

Wildcat Weekly

Issue 22—March 1, 2024

Ms. Nelson is Missing!!!!

On Tuesday our Kindergarteners and First Graders went on a field trip to see a performance of Ms. Nelson is Missing at the Performing Arts Center at Queensborough Community College. The play, based on the book written by Harry Allard and illustrated by James Marshall, tells the story of the infamous class of Room 207 and their sweet, nice teacher Ms. Nelson. The children were always misbehaving and had not respect for their teacher, until one day Ms. Nelson went missing and was replaced by the mean, strict Ms. Swamp. The children quickly changed their tune and started behaving and began to realize how much they appreciated and missed their dear Ms. Nelson. When she returned they were so happy to have her back that never misbehaved again. They kids had a blast at the show and learned a little something about respect and appreciation.

Building our Future!

Our 3K and PreK students are beginning their units on buildings. They have begun to explore are different types of buildings, from their own homes, to skyscrapers to even lighthouses. They have even putting their artistic and engineering talents to work designing and building different types of building structures out of everything from paper, to popsicle sticks to blocks. It is amazing to see their creativity and problem solving skills put to work. They may be young now, but these children are literally building the future.

Looking Ahead

- Monday 3/4—Dr. Seuss Read Across America Day World's Finest Chocolate sale ends.
- Tuesday 3/5 - Penance Prep meeting (students and parents) @ 6:45pm
- Saturday 3/9—First Penance @12:30pm
- Sunday 3/10—Daylight saving time begins—Don't forget to push your clocks ahead.
- Monday 3/11—$3/NUT dress down day
- Wednesday 3/14—Pi Day Second trimester ends
- Friday 3/15—Celebrate St. Patrick's Day—Dress down in Green, Third trimester begins

